

money makers today we're talking about the top stock to buy during the first week of march especially especially from the market tanking last week whereas pretty much every single day was a red market day however by the end of market close today we actually seen a rejuvenation of our jump back to nearly pre-dipped levels the s p 500 up 2.3 percent dow jones are nearly up 2 and nasdaq up 3 and this is all really based on a couple of really great news first one is the house past the 1.9 trillion dollar relief package meaning it's off to the senate now as well as really really strong economic data coming out now i'm not going to be super optimistic and say it's going to be peachy keen green every single day this week i do expect still some short-term volatility coming up but regardless before we get into the top stock to add this week let's quickly recap a couple of stocks that we've been buying as well as selling but first the only thing i ask of you in return is to hit that like button and turn it into a beautiful beautiful blue and if you are new here make sure you smash the subscribe button and ring the notification bell to join the money makers family the first talk we want to talk about is calera ticker symbol klr or i called the twilio twin i'm still very bullish on the stock we got in at ten dollars and it closed today's trading day at 19.12 and despite the markets actually being very red the past few days clera was actually a very very dependable stock pretty much every single day last week it closed higher than originally expected and even on friday when everything else was tanking it actually reached its 52-week high at 19.39 now one thing i do want to mention is that insiders have actually been selling which caused the stock to quiver today however honestly i do welcome some quivering this stock has been on a tear pretty much every single day you can see there's no solid support line forming as well as it's in the overbought territory right now now my original price target for this stock was 25 however with their recent acquisition increasing their margin i'm actually even more bullish i'm increasing my price target to 30 dollars but of course do not be afraid to take profits because again this is a very volatile stock without any solid support lines right now next up is copen ticker symbol k-o-p-n copen actually jumped around 10 today ending the trading day at nine dollars and 20 cents and like i've mentioned last time i actually opened a position last week when the rsi actually dipped below the overbought territory now keep in mind i plan to hold this stock for the long term i'm very bullish on the future prospect of ar and vr technology and since copen is a pick and shuffle play i'm very bullish on this now keep in mind copen is probably going to be very volatile tomorrow because they do have their earnings announcement and like we've seen with a lot of different stocks even if the report is extremely extremely positive we still see stocks tank after the earnings come out but then i do believe in copen in the long term and i do believe that it will recover now before i get into the next couple of recaps as well as the stock to check out in the first week of march i do want to let you guys know that the patreon is finally finally open today on march 1st where you can get access to my instant buy and sell alerts my weekly watch list my private portfolio and much much more this is the perfect time to join because we're starting our investing book club very very soon where we can all get super educated on investing techniques as well as styles on fundamental as well as technical analysis as well as this is march 1st and since patreon charges the first of every single month this is the perfect time to join so welcome aboard you can check out the patreon link the first link down below i do want to talk about kmph that went up around three percent today and honestly kmph has been pulling on our heartstrings very very much i was honestly expecting a lot more runway today especially since the fda approval is coming tomorrow on march 2nd and i was planning to play this with buy the rumor and sell the news and by no means am i disappointed by this stock at all because we did get into this at the lower seven dollar range and today hit around ten dollars and fifty cents today i did sell a portion of my shares in kmph when it was above the 10 mark and i locked in a good amount of profit almost 38 40 percent in gains now the remaining shares of that i have of this stock i'm going to be riding until tomorrow and see how the fda approval plays out but the reason i sold off a couple of my shares is to really cover a majority of my initial investment and the rest of the money that i have in this is pretty much just free money now before we get into the top stock to check out in the first week of march i'm gonna be talking about pounds here mainly because a lot of you guys are requesting updates on this pound here close to trading they add 24.81 with around a 3.81 percent gain i think pounds here still looks very very attractive at this price again as i said anything under 30 i've been scooping up shares pretty much every single day of early last week i haven't pulled the trigger again today mainly because i need to redeploy my capital elsewhere i already have a healthy portion of pounds here in my portfolio i might reconsider and purchase more shares later on my original price target of around 50 dollars still holds but i've been getting a lot of questions on we've been seeing a lot of insiders selling in vincent should we be selling should this be a worrying sign because insiders are getting rid of their shares and normally that's a pretty bearish outlook and my response is i don't think insider selling is necessarily an absolute negative we really have to take a deeper look into the situation and see what are all the conditions around it now the situation for pounds here since they very recently ended their lock up period meaning that insiders can start selling it does make sense that these insiders actually sell off some of their shares because many of these big players insiders actually owns millions and millions of shares of pounds here and more likely to not pounce here is a massive portion of their overall portfolio investment and these palantir insiders are smart guys they know about the rule of diversification so if they want to reduce volatility in their overall investment portfolio they're going to offload a couple hundred thousands of shares in order to make it more in line relative to their overall portfolio so in short i'm not worried about these insider sellings at the current moment now the top stock to watch to your portfolio in the first week of march actually is looking very very attractive at this price because of last week's sell-off it's called tiger brokers ticker symbol t-i-g-r tiger ended the trading day at 25.71 and we'll very quickly go over three key things one is the overview number two is the financials and number three what are the risks involved in investing in this stock so firstly tiger is a chinese brokerage platform for the global investor that originally started in china and it's backed by massive players such as xiaomi which is a massive chinese company that you might have heard of before as well as interactive brokers from the united states now tiger's main total addressable market is of course china since it's based in china but we'll talk about its expansion plans in just a few minutes but the tam right now is insanely massive at 30.2 trillion dollars that's right with a t trillion and this tan or total addressable market is expected to exceed the united states in the next couple of decades since they started in 2014 tiger brokers already has over 1 million customers with 214 000 funded accounts they facilitate over billions and billions of dollars of trade every single day with their last q3 earnings they facilitated over 63 billion dollars in trades now tiger is very attractive to people who are looking to open a brokerage account because they have the lowest commissions available amongst brokerage platforms relative to other competitors such as futu and like we mentioned although they are starting in china they're also expanding into other countries such as singapore new zealand and etc in fact chinese clients only account for around 20 of their total funded accounts but their low commissions is not the only reason clients are actually attracted to signing up with tiger another reason is actually the loophole in tiger's main system if you are a chinese investor a lot of the really high-tech companies and attractive market opportunities are listed on the us or hong kong-based exchanges and as a chinese investors there are limitations because of foreign currency however tiger actually has a loophole around this which makes it a very attractive opportunity for these investors now despite this do keep in mind that they only have around 20 of their signups actually funded because they do have a relatively challenging signup process where they do request a lot of documentation but they did recently partner with an ai platform with one of the objectives of helping people actually encourage them from not only signing up with their account but also actually funding their account and providing those verification documents so that is a step in the right direction in being able to convert some of these signups into actual funded users but another thing that really excites me about tiger is their diversification into different revenue streams because we know brokerage commissions is one but they're also expanding into other financial services and one of the most attractive ones is going to be investment banking where they essentially help companies go public in q3 of 2020 they already helped eight companies go publicly listed and there are expectations to work with even more companies in the future and honestly going ipo or through this investment banking route this is where a lot of revenue can come in and be generated now let's dive into tigers financials which are actually very very impressive tiger actually doubled their revenue for three consecutive quarters in 2020 and is growing faster than any united states or hong kong brokerage platforms tiger also recently became profitable and they're expected to increase their profit margin even more because they recently acquired their own clearinghouse called moscow where they were previously clearing through interactive brokers which you saw was one of the main investors and by clearing through a third party which they didn't own that kind of cut into their profit margins and due to their recent acquisitions obviously they're trying to bring everything in-house which shows their commitment to improving their platform increasing their financials and owning every step of the process now do keep in mind they have increased their expenses as well for example their marketing and branding expenses more than 2x to 3.7 million from 1.5 million dollars however i'm personally fine with this because as a fast growing tech startup they need to acquire more customers not only in china but also with their expansion efforts into singapore and new zealand and etc now before we dive into the risk section that you definitely want to keep in mind before you think about even investing in this company i do want to let you guys know that these due diligence reports you can see them in a lot more details on the patreon where i post my research my findings as well as a bunch of other benefits the first risk is that a majority of tiger's accounts are not funded although they are signed up only around 20 actually have money in them tiger definitely needs to work on converting these users into actually funding your accounts and we've seen a step in the right direction with their partnership with an ai platform to do so the second risk is that chinese investors historically have mostly invested in real estate or save the actual money instead of purchasing stocks however tiger is targeting the millennial market and we have seen a lot more interest from chinese investors in investing in the stock market so this might be a perfect time for them to do so the third risk is that the typical chinese investment sentiment comes in here these numbers could be fake they could be targeted by a short sale report etc etc so do understand the risk that you are taking when you are thinking of investing in tiger as always a daily dose of homework leave a comment down below on some other takers you want me to talk about or you want me to update on my previous video over here actually talked about a ticker that a lot of you guys were requesting and i'm actually quite bullish on the stock so definitely check out what the community has been requesting as well as a couple of other updates in the meantime why don't you check out this video over here or check out this video over here